

Madison Park

COMMUNITY PROFILE

Located near the west end of the Evergreen Point Bridge, Madison Park stands out not as a typical urban neighborhood but as a unique, familiar enclave. Its commercial center stretches east from Lake Washington Boulevard to the foot of Madison Street facing Lake Washington, with more than 60 diverse neighborhood businesses located along its tree-lined streets. Business owners are likely to know their customers' names as shoppers relax with a cappuccino at tables set up along bustling sidewalks, browse in one of the neighborhood's many independently owned shops, or spend the evening dining at a number of well-loved eateries. The variety of shops, restaurants, and services is what makes this beloved neighborhood unique, and the Madison Park Business Association invites you to discover for yourself the charm of this village shopping experience.

Shopping

MADISON PARK

When you shop in Madison Park, you leave behind the parking hassles, indistinct chain stores and mediocre service you might find in some shopping areas. The neighborhood offers a variety of independently owned shops all within walking distance of one another. Whether you're searching for a truly unique gift, browsing for antiques or looking for the perfect book for a rainy day, Madison Park's conveniently located shops offer just what you need. Merchants are friendly and knowledgeable, and will go out of their way to offer unparalleled service. From children's closest to cookware, from books to baked goods, from flowers to fresh fruit, Madison Park offers it all.
